I fully support the re-direction of the freight trains.
As a resident of Heathfield who has put up with trains passing within 20 metres of our back door at 110 decibels for the past 20 years, I find it ridiculous that someone would suggest the double stacking of carriages. Trains are now reaching a point that our safety is being jeopardised. to suggest that making the trains twice as heavy is ludicrous. We will watch with interest what happens, but hopefully commonsense will prevail.
