

Port Botany

The expansion of Port Botany without supporting infrastructure will routinely result in traffic gridlock once it is fully operating. In order for Sydney to retain its place as an international city this situation must be rectified. The combination of an expanded Port on top of our international airport is not going to be sustainable and other options need to be considered. Port Kembla can increase its container handling capacity and the areas prosperity but this is dependent on the Maldon to Dombarton rail link being completed. It is critical to the state that this rail link goes ahead as a priority.
